

UJEB's statement on discrimination based on sexual orientation and gender identity

The United Jewish Education Board is an educational institution in Melbourne that provides Jewish cultural and educational services to Jewish children who attend non-Jewish schools. We strive to strengthen Jewish continuity, identity and involvement in a pluralistic and inclusive manner.

UJEB is the sole provider of Jewish education before school and at lunch times in Victorian State schools. Students from 20 different State primary schools and 4 State secondary schools attend UJEB's programs each week.

UJEB also offers a comprehensive range of cultural and educational experiences throughout students' school years from years K-12. Our programming options range from after school centres to camps, from trips to Israel to intensive Hebrew languages programs. These offerings give our students a sense of belonging, connection and understanding about what it means to be an active and participatory Australian Jew living in current day Melbourne.

UJEB is passionate about inclusion. We see this as core to our organisational identity and are proud of our work with Jewish students from a range of backgrounds.

UJEB does not discriminate against students, parents, teachers or other members of staff on the basis of sexual orientation or gender identity.
